Mothers, Beware.

A young woman lay in the agonies of death; she was a poor blighted drunkard; one was trying to lead her to the Saviour. Among other sentiments which fell from his lips was this: "Strong drink has ruined you!" "Yes," replied her mother, "strong drink has been her ruin." The dying woman, on hearing this last remark, mustered all the strength she could possibly command, and lifting up her hand, said, "Mother, it was you who taught me to drink!" and died shortly after.

Claim $250,000 Damages.

Ottawa, April 27. — Messrs. MacKenzie and Mann have been in the city for several days. They have a number of projects on hand, but it is said their chief business here is to formulate their claim against the Government for expenditure incurred in connection with the unfortunate Yukon railway deal of last year. It is said by those who know that the amount of damages will be placed by them at not far short of $250,000. The amount of the recent decision against them in the courts of $70,000, due the Alberta Railway and Coal Company for rails supplied, will be one of the items of the bill of particulars which the Government will be asked to pay.

ICE REFRIGERATION.

How to Secure the Best Results at Least Cost.

Some 17 years ago, writes George H. Gurlier of Illinois, H. B. Gurlier and myself built our first creamery and refrigerator. We thought it sufficient to partly surround a tightly closed room with ice, so on one side of our icehouse we made a room about 12 by 18 and 8 feet high and packed the ice on one side and overhead when we filled the house. When warm weather came, the sides and ceiling began to gather moisture, and the room was wet and damp. The ice, too, melted rapidly, and the whole thing was unsatisfactory.

Some years later we thought we could improve this room by creating a circulation of air. This we did by putting the ice in the top of the room and allowing the hot air to pass around the ice and become cooled. By later experience I am satisfied that our idea of creating a circulation was all right, but our way of doing it was not.

As a type of a later and better refrigerator it might be well to describe one I recently built. This room is approximately 8 by 12 and 8 feet high, made of three thicknesses of matched lumber and building paper laid in such shape as to leave two air spaces 1 1/2 inches wide around the sides and top. The door into the butter room is made the same way and flanged like the door of a safe. One window with double sashes and blinds admits what light is necessary.

In one side of this room is built the box or rack for the ice. It is 8 feet long by 3 feet wide and extends from the ceiling to within 1 1/2 feet of the floor. The bottom is made of 2 by 6 set edge-wise two inches apart and capable of easily supporting the 10 to 15 cakes of ice the rack is designed to hold. The ice drip from the ice is carried off by a tin conductor under the 2 by 6. The sides and ends of the box are boarded up to within six inches of the ceiling, which space is left open, one side of this rack being also the side of the building. The ice is easily put in through a small closely fitting door.

I think a better circulation is obtained and less ice used by having the ice near the floor as in the above room, the cold, heavy air passing from around the ice to the floor and the warm, light air being forced from the top of the room through the space at the top of the ice rack and in turn becoming cooled. This rack and in turn becoming cooled. This room is as dry and sweet as any room in the building, and no particle of moisture or dampness gathers either on the sides of the room or on the tubs of butter.

I used from 40 to 50 tons of ice in this refrigerator last season and had as high as 85 to 90 tubs per week in it. The temperature was low enough throughout the summer to keep the butter in good shape. I think an average of 50 degrees F. would not be unreasonable.

Mexico continues to furnish the United States with more than half of its supply of mahogany.

PROFITABLE FEEDING.

Double Price For Grain Fed to Dairy Cows.

Any farmer would be glad to sell his corn and oats at twice their market value, says The National Stockman, and while this is not possible in the ordinary way of marketing it is perfectly feasible if the grain be fed to a good dairy cow. There are certain conditions necessary to insure this, it is true, but they are not out of the reach of the farmer with small means. Warm stables, plenty of pure water well above freezing temperature, plenty of good wholesome food and kind treatment—these are within the reach of any one who owns one or more cows.

For the first expensive barns are not necessary. Straw stuffed walls are warm and cheap. There are many wind swept cow stables in this land with straw going to waste in the same yard. Building paper is very cheap, but windproof.

Water from a well or spring is a great deal better than ice water for a cow to drink. The latter chills her through and through. A cow ought to drink heartily at least twice a day, yet with a few swallows of ice water she becomes chilled and does not take half so much of such water as of that of a higher temperature.

Where cows are watered from an outdoor tank, a tank heater will be found a very wise investment. It will pay for itself many times over before it is worn out. All farm animals prefer water with the chill off, and the milk cow will give a greater quantity of milk if this is provided for her. Bank up the tank around the outside and hinge a cover to one side, raising this only long enough for the animals to drink. The warm air water up to a certain point where they will consume. On a cold winter morning water of 80 or 90 degrees will be consumed with avidity, although 60 degrees is probably sufficiently warm.

As to the food, we have found wheat bran indispensable. Not only is it unexcelled as a milk producer, but it keeps a cow's system in good order, being cooling and laxative in its action. To go with this one may use ground corn and oats, half and half, the entire ration being composed of one-half bran, one-fourth cornmeal, one-fourth ground oats. This ration will appeal to the general farmer, but bran fed with gluten meal comprises an equally valuable ration and one not more expensive either. The proportions may be varied from one-fourth to one-third by weight of the gluten.

MISS ETTA COON, GRIMSBY.

Over A. J. Smith's Dry Goods Store.

to stay with her mother, Mrs. S. Oakley, in order to recruit from a severe attack of la grippe. She was soon taken with typhoid fever and from the first was dangerously ill. Her strength had already been sapped by the grip and she was not able to go through the trying ordeal of the fever. She died on Monday, May 1st, at the age of 40 years. Deceased was daughter of Mr. S. Oakley, of Grimsby, and lived here all her life until a year or two ago when she moved with her husband to Toronto Junction. She leaves a husband, three daughters, a father and mother, two sisters and two brothers to mourn her loss. The interment took place to Queen's Lawn cemetery on Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended.

GEORGE VANDYKE, AN OLD PIONEER, PASSES AWAY.

With the passing of Geo. VanDyke, Grimsby loses one of its oldest, most respected and best informed citizens. Capt. Randall, Geo. VanDyke, W. A. Cole, Chas. Moore, J. W. Lewis, and Isaac Lewis have, for years, been looked upon as "our old timers" and any question of ancient history in connection with Grimsby was always referred to one of these. Chas. Moore passed away some time ago. Now George VanDyke is gone.

Deceased was a remarkably healthy correct living man, and up till six months ago was considered good for 10 years yet, but during the past winter he seemed to have a general breaking up, and the immediate cause of death was heart failure. George VanDyke was born in New York state, on Jan. 22nd 1822, and came to Canada with his father, Stephen VanDyke, when he was but a boy. In due time he took out his naturalization papers and became a British subject and finally settled in Grimsby. He was married on Oct. 9th, 1842, to Dinah House, daughter of George House, of Clinton Township. In 1849 he built and moved into the house which he occupied up to the time of his death, a period of 50 years. In 1892 he and Mrs. VanDyke celebrated their golden wedding, in 1894 Mrs. VanDyke died. During the rebellion of 1837-38 the deceased was on duty for his Queen and country and many thrilling stories he could tell of those stirring times, although he was then but 16 years of age.

He was made a Mason on Oct. 5th, 1854, and up to the time of his death was, next to Capt. Randall, the oldest living member of the Grimsby lodge. In politics he was a staunch Reformer of the old school. In religion a Presbyterian.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Moses Corless, of New Durham, Ont., and Mrs. Edwin Wilson, of Grimsby, and three sons, Charles E., Harry, and Rome, all of Grimsby.

The funeral, which will be conducted with Masonic honors, will take place on Thursday afternoon to Queen's Lawn cemetery at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Service at the house.

KING GETS SEVEN YEARS.

Canadians Sentenced to the Iowa Penitentiary.

Rock Rapids, Iowa, April 27.—Robert King, hotel-keeper, of Paisley, Ont., and A. J. Conover, ex-hotel-keeper, of Wingham, Ont., were today sentenced to long terms of imprisonment in the Iowa penitentiary for swindling the First National Bank, of Rock Rapids, by means of forged drafts. King, who pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence, was given seven years on a charge of uttering a forged draft, Conover three years for forgery and seven years for uttering. Conover also gets four years' extra imprisonment for violating the condition of an old pardon, making fourteen years in all.

The following is the list of banks which Conover and King have swindled since October, 1897:—

He was arrested at Paisley about three months ago, and after a strenuous fight at Walkerton was held for extradition.

Canada's Support Asked.

London, April 27.—Canada is being urgently appealed to to assist the disfranchised British subjects to secure citizens' rights in the Transvaal, where affairs are again reaching a grave crisis.

The South African League, of which Cecil Rhodes is the president, representing the best British interests in South Africa, has despatched a cablegram to the British Empire League of Canada, indicating that the hands of the Imperial Government would be greatly strengthened if Canada made known at this critical juncture her sympathy with the Uitlanders' petition now before the Queen.

PURE BRED.

An Expression Without a Very Exact Definition.

The correct definition of the expression "pure bred" is at present agitating the minds of the breeders of some varieties of live stock, says the London Live Stock Journal. But apparently a solution of the difficulty is not so easy to discover as may at first sight appear to be the case. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that the expression "mongrel" is easily defined, though unfortunately it is by no means so simple a task as breeders might wish it to be to apply it to the animal world without giving great offense. The fact that the first definition of the word is "the progeny resulting from a cross between two breeds, as of domestic animals," does not seem to place any limit or restriction upon the extent of the application of the term, and as the vast majority of the modern varieties of animals are the result of crossing two or more breeds the difficulty of drawing the line is at once apparent. For instance, one breed is said to have been improved by the introduction of Flemish blood, and another was probably a half bred Arab and old English mare. Yet none of these breeds can be legitimately stigmatized as mongrel, though, according to the rendering of the immortal Webster, they can scarcely claim to be pure bred. The very thoroughbred of which all Englishmen are so justly proud is admittedly the result of a comparatively recent cross, and even many varieties of ponies which for centuries have roamed their native hills and moors are known to have been "improved" by the infusion of extraneous blood. The question of defining the term "pure bred" must therefore depend very greatly upon the personal ideas of those who use it. But perhaps a general point of agreement might be accepted upon something of such a basis—that a pure breed is one that has been uncrossed for a stated number of generations and is capable of reproducing its type with certainty. It is to be feared, however, that the inevitable throat backs which occasionally appear might raise difficulties over the acceptance of this definition of a very difficult expression.

WHEN TO SPRAY.

Professor Card's Recommendations For Apple Orchards.

Professor Card of Nebraska makes the following recommendation in a recent bulletin:

Spray with paris green, as generally recommended, about one week after the blossoms fall or in time to get the calyx cups well filled with the poison so that they may close over and hold it there.

Spray again with paris green and bordeaux mixture combined or with kerosene emulsion about June 1, or, better still, observe carefully and apply this when the eggs are being laid in abundance on the leaves.

Scrape the bark and place paper bands around the tree about the last of June, when the larvae are beginning to leave the apple to pupate. Examine these two or three times, a week apart, and destroy the insects found beneath them.

If these methods are not wholly effective, owing to the proximity of neglected orchards or from an unusual abundance of moths, later spraying, with either paris green and bordeaux mixture or kerosene emulsion, may do some good, but apparently cannot be expected to be wholly effective. Late spraying with arsenites is much more likely to injure the foliage than earlier applications.

If larvae are still found in the apples in any considerable numbers toward the end of the season, place paper bands about the tree about Sept. 1 or a little earlier. Leave them there until the fruit is gathered from the orchard; then remove and destroy the larvae hibernating beneath them.

Squashes For Europe.

"There is only one way to relieve the squash market—create a foreign demand. England, Ireland and Scotland know nothing about squashes. They cannot be raised there and are never to be found in their markets. I have been told that English people do not like squashes. How can that be known until they have tried them? What is needed is a man who knows all about the squash, either as a table delicacy or in the form of our famous squash pie—an ambitious, energetic man, who will thoroughly introduce our fine vegetable to our English cousins. They cannot have any greater prejudice against it than our forefathers, who, as Englishmen, first came in contact with it in their new homes." So says Mr. J. J. H. Gregory in The Country Gentleman, to which he sends a copy of a petition to the commissioner of agriculture at Washington which the members of the Boston Market Gardeners' association have united in signing, the purport of which is that $5,000 be expended in sending in August, 1899, a suitable agent—one who shall be well skilled in the various ways of preparing squashes for table use—to attempt their introduction into the markets of England, Scotland and Ireland and such other countries in Europe in whose markets they have not as yet obtained a foothold.

THE FLEA BEETLE.

This "Steely Bug" Can Quickly Nip a Whole Crop in the Bud.

The grape grower must start out early in the season to get ahead of the grapevine flea beetle and to keep there. As soon as the grape buds begin to swell is none too early, because the first attack of the beetle, after emerging from hibernation in the earliest warm days, is upon the bursting buds. It should be an easy matter for the grape grower to recognize these little glossy, greenish blue or steel blue insects, as they are the only beetles that occur in injurious numbers upon the grapevine. Most of the damage is done by the adult beetles, but the little dark brown grubs also work on the leaves.

The Cornell station has recently issued a bulletin by Professor Slingerland intended to help grape growers to recognize and combat this insect, which makes trouble all over the eastern half of the country. Methods which he recommends for controlling the beetles when they emerge in early spring are collecting by hand, spraying with paris green and jarring into pans of kerosene. The paris green is used very strong Professor Slingerland says the buds will stand the poison at the rate of one pound in 50 to 75 gallons of water, providing an equal amount of freshly slacked lime is also added. Literally paint the buds with this mixture and renew the application in a few days or sooner if rains occur.

The work of the tiny brown grubs, about a quarter of an inch in length, is conspicuous, and they usually feed on the upper side of the leaves. Experiments have shown that the grubs readily succumb to a spray of whale oil soap (one pound in six or eight gallons of water) or kerosene emulsion.
A less expensive and easier method is to spray the infested foliage with paris green or some other poison, thus poisoning their food. A pound of paris green in 150 gallons of water is strong enough to kill the grubs quickly.

Growing Pansies.

Writing of pansy plants which have been raised from seed in boxes in the house or in hotbeds, a correspondent of Vick's Magazine says: By May the plants ought to be large enough to be set out of doors. Have the ground where they are to be placed spaded deep and mellow and plenty of well decayed manure worked in, as pansies delight in a rich soil. Select a cloudy day for setting out the plants and put them about eight inches apart each way, firming them down well. By July they will be in blossom and will continue to flower till late in the fall. In the meantime work the soil every week; give the plants all the water they can drink; keep the blossoms well picked off, so no seed pods—which take the strength from the plants—can form, and give fertilizer if it should be needed.

Lawn Grasses.

The principal lawn grasses of this country are Kentucky blue grass, creeping bent and Rhode Island bent. White or Dutch clover is often sown with Kentucky blue grass, and this mixture is not objectionable, according to L. Lamson Scribner, agronomist of the agricultural department, because the shade of green in the clover is nearly the same as that of the grass. There are several of the fine leaved fescues, the names of which are not well known which are also valuable lawn grasses in the regions where Kentucky blue grass may be grown.

Fruit and Flower Notes.

The Golden Gate rose, as forced, is described by a correspondent of Vicks Magazine as very beautiful, an exquisite rich creamy yellow, flushed near the edge of the petals with salmon peach. The uncurling buds have an especially beautiful glow of color. The fragrance is rich and fruity.

The New York State Agricultural society notes that quinces were excellent in quality and growers rewarded with remunerative prices last season, and it recommends this fruit to the more general recognition of orchardmen in sections adapted to its culture.

One of the latest novelties in experimental work is forcing the buds of slow growing or weak trees and plants with hydraulic pressure applied to the roots by an ingenious process devised at the Wisconsin station.

The department of agriculture views as among the possibilities the production of an orange that shall be a successful cross of the juicy and seedless navel orange with the loose skinned tangerine.

A movement is under way for reorganizing the American Rose society.

What Attracts Boys.

How to keep boys on the farm is as much a question in the south as in the north and west. Speaking of this The Western Agriculturist says: "While scientific agriculture is an inviting field for the farmers' sons, the highest achievement is attained by the breeders of pure bred stock. Note the large number of public sales the past year where $10,000 to $20,000 worth of surplus young stock was sold and the breeding plant retained to keep up the supply of pedigree stock for the regular annual sale. All kinds of pure bred stock are in demand, and nothing will interest the boys like the pedigree stock that sells at good prices. There is a commercial, businesslike fascination about it that will interest the boys and keep them on the farm. Scientific breeding of the improved breeds is a benefit to the community, to the state and to the nation and adds millions of dollars to the wealth of the country and brings prosperity to the farm."

The Bahama Duck.

This duck, known to naturalists as the Bahama Marbled duck (Defila bahamensis and Pasclionetta bahamensis), is sometimes seen at our exhibitions. In length it measures about 18½ inches. The bill, 1½ inches long, is of a leaden color, reddish on the sides in adult specimens, while in young birds it is of a brownish color, the color changing with age.

The crown of the head is a sepia brown; the tail and back brown, edged with a lighter shade of the same color; the breast gray; spotted with brown; the wing bar metallic violet, edged with a narrow stripe of buff upon the front and a broad one on the back; the legs are of a dark color. Both sexes are alike in plumage.

The Bahama duck is found in Brazil and the Bahama islands, and, although not numerous on these islands, yet one there, Ilathera, has given its name to this variety, as it is called by some naturalists the Ilathera duck. It has also received the names of Canard de Bahama and Le Marec. It perches upon trees and is not migratory in its habits. A very similar species is said to be found at the Cape of Good Hope.—London Poultry

Don't Coddle Fowls.

Never coddle or baby either old or young fowls. Provide them with suitable shelter and allow them to use their discretion about keeping under cover—only be sure that you have things so that they can run to shelter if they want to. We can have healthy fowls by breeding from vigorous, healthy, mature stock from ancestors equally good. This will give us sturdy chicks if eggs are properly incubated—chicks kept growing with good care on free range. All our stock should be allowed warm, clean quarters, plenty of fresh air and sunlight, pure water, good, sound food, exercise, good care and freedom from vermin.—American Poultry Journal.

Henhouse Manure.

The henhouse furnishes a very rich manure for the garden, but it is a rather one sided manure, rich in nitrogen, so that applications of potash and phosphate will be needed. Wood ashes will supply the potash, but they should never be mixed with the hen manure before they are applied. Kainit will also supply potash and can be mixed with manure, tending to conserve the ammonia. Lime is a fine thing to have about the henhouse, but it should not be mixed with the manure.—Maine Farmer.

A Growing Association.

The Aurora (Ills.) Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock association will hold its first annual exhibition at Aurora Jan. 8 to 13, 1900. In two months the society has gained a membership of 39 paid up names. On Jan. 20-21 it held a little scoring show limited to members. B. N. Pierce was judge of poultry and J. M. Reil of pigeons. There were nearly 300 entries in the poultry list and 125 pigeons.

FATTENING ARTIFICIALLY.

Some of the Methods of Stuffing Poultry With Food in France.

It is in France where the gastronomic art is carried to the highest point that artificial methods of fattening poultry to meet epicurean tastes have been most developed. The ordinary method is to shut the birds in a shed the floor of which is thickly covered with straw, with troughs for food and water round the sides. The birds are free to move about, but they are close enough together to cause an appreciable rise in the temperature of the place. They are fed with substances which are easily digested, so that the stomach is spared as much work as possible. To give them an appetite their food is varied considerably, and they are allowed nothing but salt water to drink. Three times a day boluses are administered in the form of long sticks of forcement, which are pushed down the gullet of the fowl. Immediately after each meal the bird is made to drink.

Stuffing is not always done by hand. Sometimes a funnel filled with maize is employed. It is introduced into the bird's throat, and by the aid of a short stick the grains are pushed into the crop.

In Paris at the large poultry market the method in vogue is still more primitive and seems anything but appetizing to the poultry lover. There it is the operator himself who fills his mouth from the trough of semiliquid paste and then injects it into the bird's gullet.

In the wholesale industry fattening cages are used, the appearance of which is decidedly singular. The cage is a circular structure, the walls of which are divided into a number of square boxes, each of them just large enough to hold a goose. The birds' heads are turned outward and often the whole cage turned on an axle, so that each bird fronts the operator in turn.

Biddy's Queer Brood.

Out in the Smoky Hollow section of Great Bend township, Pa., a party of snow bound traveling men were swapping yarns about animals one day in early March, says a correspondent of the New York Press. After several pretty stiff stories had been told the hotel clerk woke up. "Bill Sullivan of this township," said he, "has a hen that has just hatched out a queer brood. She was forever sitting on something, trying to hatch out doorknobs, horse-shoes and the like, and so Bill thought he'd cure her of the habit. He had some rattlesnake eggs that he found last summer and had put away in cotton, intending to hatch them out in hot sand in June."

"He put these eggs under the hen about three weeks ago, and in just 14 days the crisis came. One morning there was an awful howl 's do in the henhouse, and Bill went out to investigate."

"You may not believe it, but there was that darned old hen hopping up and down in a fearful state of mind, running up to look into her nest and then running away again with wings outstretched and cackling a demand for an explanation. She flew at Bill as though she intended to peck his eyes out, but he bent her off and then took a look in the nest."

"There were seven little rattlesnakes, each about four inches long, squirming about in it. For one whole day that hen refused to return to the nest, but on the next day she went back to it, and she had evidently made up her mind to rear that brood and make the best of it."

"Boys," said Pete Bowles solemnly, "we've just about got time to catch that way freight."

And they filed out.

Care of Houses.

Poultry houses should be thoroughly renovated once, better twice, a year. If you wish, brighten the walls by a thorough application of good hot white-wash to which a little carbolic acid has been added. If you don't like white-wash, use some good wood preservative and paint the whole interior of the house with it. If you have earthen or sand floors, which are the best, dig them up and cart off the upper four inches of dirt and replace with new fresh earth or sand. If you have wood or cement floors, cleanse them thoroughly and whitewash or mop them over with some cheap nonpoisonous disinfectant. Then cover them when dry with a few inches of sand or earth.—Dr Woods.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. Mary Bordeaux, King St., Chatham, Ont., says: "For some months I have been afflicted with nervousness and general debility. Going upstairs would produce a great shortness of breath and a tired, exhausted feeling."

I had palpitation and fluttering of the heart, and for months have not been well or strong. Until I took Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I almost despaired of a cure. I have only taken one full box, and now feel splendid.

My nerves are strong, all the heart troubles are completely removed, the shortness of breath has vanished, and the constant tired out, all gone feeling is a thing of the past. It is needless to say that I esteem this remedy the best in the world for heart and nerve troubles."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25, at all druggists.

Smithville.

Abraham Wardell and Miss Emma Wardell, who have been spending the winter in Detroit and Chicago, returned here last week.

Geo. Kennedy, of Montana, is here on a visit to his brother Jacob.

Geo. Tanner visited in Hamilton on Friday.

Ambrose Snider and Nelson Cartwright, who went to Muskoka to take up land, returned on Friday. They do not think much of that part of the country.

E. Marlatt and A. Aldrich, of Chesapeake, spent a few days here last week with some of Mr. Marlatt's old friends.

Harry Couse was home from Buffalo over Sunday.

Art Glover, of Niagara Falls, wheeled here on Sunday to spend the day with his parents.

Mrs. John Tanner is spending a few days in Buffalo.

A fair and attentive audience greeted Rev. Rural Dean Spencer in St. Luke's Church of England on Tuesday evening of last week to hear his lecture "To the Jews first and afterwards to the Gentiles," and to see the latest stereoscopic views shown by him. All were well pleased with both lecture and views and no doubt will be very pleased to hear Mr. Spencer again. The proceeds were in aid of the Home Missions.

A delighted crowd it was that left the basement of the Methodist church on Friday evening last after partaking of a nice lunch and hearing the debate resolved that "Britain as an Empire will decline." The occasion was an "at home" given by the Epworth League and the parties to the debate were R. Wade and M. O. Nelson for the affirmative and R. Gillespie and W. Schofield were for the negative. The referees, Willis Merritt, Miss Bridgman and Miss McArthur had quite a task in deciding the question, as all the participants spoke exceedingly well, but after due deliberation decided in favor of the affirmative.

The many friends of Miss Maud Shipman will regret to learn that she is again ill.

Beats the Klondike.

Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Marysville, Tex., has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption, accompanied by hemorrhages; and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. He declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvellous cure; would have it, even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle. Asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Sold at any drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded. Sold by Murray Fitch, Grimsby.

Bean Straw For Feeding Cows.

While the sheep take naturally to bean straw and to the grain itself, there are many who grow beans who do not keep sheep. With a little care in giving only small amounts at first, and when the cow is hungry, she will eat bean straw and soon come to like it for a change as well as the hay or corn stalks which are her regular diet. Bean straw is very nutritious, and as it causes wind on the stomach it should be given with caution to breeding stock, either sows or cows, lest it should cause abortion. The refuse beans that are often thrown away may properly be ground and mixed with cornmeal as feed for hogs. They are very nutritious, more so than corn.—Boston Cultivator.

Feeding Smutty Corn.

Whenever you observe a smutty ear of corn put it in the fire. This should have been done at husking time, but some smut may have been overlooked then and developed since. If all farmers would stamp out the corn smut wherever found the disease could soon be eradicated. Feeding it to either cows or hogs, as is often done, is the readiest way to send it to the manure pile, where it will propagate very rapidly. Besides, it is a serious danger to the animals to which it is fed, especially if they are bearing young.—Boston Cultivator.

THAT BOOK AGENT.

The Pastor. "Good morning, Bro. Roberts, what makes you look so sad this morning?" Bro. R. "I have come to say good-bye, Mr. Brown, for I am out of employment, and must go back to England."

The Pastor. "Go back to England to get employment, what nonsense! I can get lots of work for a young man like you in this country."

Bro. R. "Well, I have hunted high and low and can get nothing, so what am I to do?"

The Pastor. "I tell you what you can do, Bro. Roberts, take an agency for a good book, for there is money in canvassing."

Bro. R. "Do you think I would stoop to book canvassing?"

The Pastor. (Sneakingly warmly.) "Stoop to canvassing! Better men than you have canvassed. I put myself through College with a book prospectus, and I know many successful men who got their start in life as canvassers. My youngest son is canvassing now, and he makes enough at the business to pay his way at the University. I induced a man who failed in business, to take up canvassing, and he made enough money to start business again. I gave the same advice to a young mechanic, who was out of employment, and he is now a prosperous Publisher. Why, some of the biggest men in history have been book agents! 'Stoop to canvassing'; you are very fortunate that you can step up to it."

I advise you to write to the Bradley-Garretson Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont., for this firm publishes fast selling books, and I know many who are doing well in its employ."

Bro. R. "I am sorry for speaking as I did, for I was certainly wrong. I will write The Bradley-Garretson Company and see what they have to offer, and will postpone my departure in the meantime."

LEGS ENTIRELY RAW

From his feet to his body, and ran a blood tinged, irritating water.

Mrs. A. Keirstead, Snider Mt., N.B., tells how her little boy suffered, and how B.B.B. cured him permanently.

FREDDY KEIRSTEAD.

There is not a mother in this land who has a child suffering from skin disease in any form but will thank Mrs. Keirstead, of Snider Mt., N.B., for telling of the remarkable manner in which her boy, Freddy, was cured of one of the severest and most torturing of skin diseases by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters; and not only relieved and cured for the time being, but, mark you, after eight years the disease has shown no sign of returning. The following is Mrs. Keirstead's letter:—

"With gratitude I can testify to the wonderful curative powers of Burdock Blood Bitters. Eight years ago our little son, Freddy, was afflicted with salt rheum and was in a dreadful condition. His legs, from the soles of his feet to his body, were entirely raw, and ran a bloody water, which appeared to burn and itch until he was often in great agony."

"After trying several remedies, we resolved to give B.B.B. a trial."

"You can imagine with what delight and gratitude we saw our boy entirely cured after using one bottle and part of the second. We gave him the remainder of the second bottle, and from that time till the present he has never had a sign of salt rheum or a sick day. You need not wonder that I think there is no other medicine can equal Burdock Blood Bitters to purify the blood and build up the health and strength."

GRIMSBY NEWS.

Postal Delivery.

Editor Independent:

There is one respect in which Grimsby is woefully behind the times. I refer to the postal arrangement. In many places much inferior to Grimsby in size of population and importance the citizens enjoy the privilege of a postal delivery.

Our present system is wasteful of time and patience and is most inconvenient, and has been so for years, and the service should be reinforced by having a regular private postman to deliver the two mails daily to all willing to subscribe for that privilege. The collection of the outgoing mail could, in the business section at least, be also included.

A large number of business men have already expressed themselves favourably as to the proposition.

This letter, Mr. Editor, is to inform the general public of the move and with a view to obtaining the most suitable person for the position.

There is good pay in the situation and it should call for a good man.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.

Women's Institute.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at Stony Creek. Owing to the small attendance the programme was rather short. Mrs. McNeilly read a paper on "Clubs for Women," and the subject of Mrs. Nelson's paper was "Physiology."

At the next meeting, on May 11th, the Institute hopes to secure Mrs. J. Rose Holden to address the meeting on "Home Cooking."

To "Tot"

You accuse me as a critic
Appearing lenient to you,
And that I made enemies,
Which I never meant to do.

Perhaps a little explanation
Would not be out of place,
And it would give me pleasure
To meet you face to face.

I agree with you in saying
In this little town of ours,
And have noticed it myself
How outsiders pluck our flowers.

But suppose there was a "gentleman,"
Who was a friend to you,
Accused with those who were not gentlemen,
Tell me what would you do.

Don't you think that you would have
A little inclination
To try without offense
To resent the accusation.

But as I said before,
What you say is all too true,
And I trust our boys will act
On the moral given by you.

OCEOLA.

AN IMPORTANT CHANGE.

"New Standard" Ready-Made Clothing to be Handled in Hamilton by F. R. Smith.

During the past two years the Fit-Reform Clothing Co., of Montreal, has been after the Smith Clothing Co., of this city, to handle their productions, but the terms were not satisfactory, and about three months ago some of the promoters of the Fit-Reform Company withdrew and formed another company, with large stores in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Winnipeg.

When F. R. Smith spent a week, in January last, among the big New York clothing makers, he got many pointers, and has since been making arrangements with a large Toronto manufacturer to carry out similar ideas in the making of ready made clothing as those adopted by the Montreal concern.

Mr. Smith is in Toronto to day, so could not be interviewed but it is expected the new wardrobe fixtures will be in place and the new clothing now being made will be ready about the first of June.

The "New Standard" is the copyrighted name of the clothing, and it will be graded in price on the same principle as the "Slater" shoe, four prices, namely, $7.50, $10.00, $12.00 and $14.00; $7.50 being the lowest price. A good guarantee will be given with every suit, on the same principle as adopted by Rodger, Peete & Co., of New York.

This, of course, will not in any way interfere with the merchant tailoring department at Smith's, under the management of James Slater.—Hamilton Times.

GRIMSBY PUBLIC LIBRARY

Secretary-Treasurer's Report for 1898-1899.

The secretary treasurer begs to report as follows:

That the total number of names on the membership roll for the year ending April 30th, 1899, is 117. Paying members 114. Non-paying members 3. Of the whole number on the roll 58 are from the township.

The Library has been open 156 days in the year from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., while the Board of Management has had six meetings.

The issue of books has fallen off somewhat from last year, owing no doubt to a smaller membership; still, large enough to show a very considerable amount of reading done, and were classified as follows:—Biography 3, travels 86, poetry and drama 45, science and art 90, history 221, miscellaneous 1600, fiction 1503, religious 8, general literature 820, reference C, making a total of 4382 volumes issued during the year.

The number of new books added to library during the year was 172, as compared with 157 of the year before, 25 of the number being fiction.

The reading room has been well patronised throughout the year, where were to be found 14 periodicals, 2 daily papers and 4 weekly papers.

ELECTION OF A NEW BOARD.

After the reading and adoption of the Sec'y-Treas. report a new board was elected for the balance of 1899. The following constitute the board:—J. H. Grout, Rev. J. Muir, C. W. Harrison, Wm. Mitchell, S. A. Whittaker, John Kerman, W. F. Clarke, J. W. G. Nelles and Jas. A. Livingston.

The new Board will meet Friday evening, May 5th.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globe of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain fog into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. #### A Fine Tower and Tank.

J. N. Darby is making extensive improvements on his farm in the north west part of the village. He has erected an immense tower upon which he is placing a water tank, built on the English style, that will hold 30,000 gallons of water. The water will be pumped from the lake by a wind mill, and so high is the tank that water can be thrown on the roof of the house in case of fire.

The lower story of the Tower will be used by Mr. Darby as a carriage house and the second story will be utilized as and implement wareroom. We would suggest to Mr. Darby that upon the upon the tank he should place an observatory, from which he would have the finest panoramic view in Ontario.

Mr. Darby intends making other extensive improvements in his farm building later.

Jas. A. Hewitt has the contract of building the tower and tank.

H. G. & B. Again Beaten.

For the second time in half a month the H. G. & B. Electric Ry Company got a bad throw-down in their lawsuit with the township of Saltfleet last week. There was general rejoicing amongst the people all along the line when Grimsby village won the suits with the company two weeks ago, but that was not a circumstance to the hilarity felt by the people when Saltfleet gave the company a bad beating last week. Everyone except the poor shareholders were delighted with the result—the more because many feared that in such a complicated matter reasons for a compromise might arise.

The jubilation through Saltfleet was universal when it was learned that the township had won on every point and that the company had to pay full costs of the action and were ordered by the judge to make the needed changes and repairs within four months or stop running.

Congratulations poured in on Reeve Millen and the council from all sides and it is easy with the truth to say that at present Reeve Millen is the most popular man in Saltfleet.

SHEEP OF BLUEST BLOOD.

Merinos of Long Pedigrees in the Hills of Vermont.

"The bluest blooded, most aristocratic of all domestic animals in the United States is the Merino sheep," said Aaron Spencer, a New England stock breeder, to the New York Sun, "and nowhere else in the world, not even among the hills of Spain, the original home of the Merino, is this valuable animal found in such perfection and purity of breeding as among the Green mountains of Vermont. There are Merinos in that region, and particularly in Addison county, whose pedigree is traced back without a break in the record or a blot in the blood for more than a century directly to ancestral pastures in Spain.

"To look at a Merino sheep, unless you know all the points of one, you would scarcely think it was worth driving to pasture. Greasy, dirty and unclean, its fleece, blackened by an oozy, gummy substance which, to put it mild, is by no means fragrant, hanging to its body in rhinoceroslike folds and wrinkles, the eyes barely visible and nothing but the nose showing free from the greasy, sticky, ill smelling mass, the royal blooded Merino is not a sight to cause much enthusiasm in a spectator who is looking for outward beauty. But the blacker and gummier and more rhinoceroslike its fleece the better it is. Breeders think so much of that dirty gum on their Merino that they carefully shelter them from showers and even heavy dews, to prevent a particle of it from being dissipated. Members of this aristocratic family of sheep of the Vermont breed have taken on this unprepossessing and uncouth appearance and rank smell to such a degree that they have easily commanded $5,000 apiece from eager breeders. I knew an Addison county flock of Merinos, 30 in number, to be sold, just as they stood in the pasture, for $10,000 cash.

"For centuries the government of Spain prohibited, under heavy penalties, the exportation of Merino sheep, knowing well the great value of that product of its mountain slopes and being resolved not to share it with any other country. In 1802 Colonel David Humphrey of Connecticut was United States minister to Spain, and he made himself so popular at the court of Madrid that when he retired from office in that year his request to be permitted to fetch with him to America a number of Merinos of known superiority of blood was granted by the Spanish government. Those sheep were placed on the Humphrey farm, near Derby, and from that original stock the present royal breed of Vermont Merinos sprang.

"But there is an aristocracy even among blue blooded Merinos, and the family known as the Atwoods may be said to be the Mayflower stock of all Merinos in this country and the highest in degree in any country except Spain. They hold their heads above the most aristocratic of their kind not because their blood is any better than other Vermont Merinos, but simply because they are Atwoods and nothing else. Two or three years after Colonel Humphrey brought that first flock of Merinos from their native hills in Spain a young farmer named Stephen Atwood agreed to work a whole year on the Humphrey farm for just one ewe from the original importation of Merinos. The contract was fulfilled, and from that ewe and a Humphrey Merino ram the present Atwood Merinos originated. Atwood transferred his sheep to Addison county, and there the purity of the blood has been sacredly preserved, an association of breeders having been formed for no other purpose than to maintain that purity. Descendants of Stephen Atwood controlled the flock until a few years ago, when it passed into other hands. A half interest in one of the rams brought $2,500. The flock was separated, but the Atwoods remain still the Merinos of highest degree. When a lamb of this ultra blue blood is born, its ears are pierced, and silver labels, one with a number on it and the other with the ewe's name, are attached to them. The number and name are entered on the books of the association. If the lamb is sold or transferred, the owner must notify the association, and the transaction is carefully noted on the books. Any subsequent disposition of the lamb must also be reported to the association, so that every movement of that lamb from its birth to its death is always known. No sheep has any standing as a royal blooded Merino which does not wear the earrings and can have no certificate of pedigree. Today Merino sheep are raised all over the world, Australian breeders being the largest owners, but even from Australia, that garden spot of sheep raising, as well as from every other sheep growing country, the breeders come to Addison county, Vt., to obtain scions of the original stock whenever they want to improve their flocks.

Pasture and Parasites.

Continuous pasturing on the same land is the most effective method of spreading parasitic diseases. Pastures must be clean, and for this a regular course of rotation is indispensable. It is a question now whether or not sheep should be pastured on anything but annually grown crops.

Suckers on Celery.

In regard to a case of suckering in celery Rural New Yorker says it may be due to poor stock, and adds: Several years ago New York celery growers were troubled with these malformed plants, in some places quite seriously. Investigation placed the probable responsibility on the seed grower who had furnished the stock. He had grown his celery year after year on the same land and had failed to "rogue" it—that is, to go through the fields frequently and discard all plants not up to the standard of excellence in the variety; hence the stock had deteriorated or "run out." Evidence of this weakness would be more likely to appear in plants grown under unfavorable conditions. Celery needs a deep, rich, moist soil and will bear no check in growth.

PLANTING PEAS.

An Effective Arrangement of Early and Late Varieties.

As soon as the ground is in a fit state for working peas demand first attention. There is perhaps nothing in the whole year that interests the grower so much as getting the first dish, in the shortest time possible, of this much prized vegetable. A light soil well enriched with old manure in a sheltered part of the garden, with a south aspect, is best for first plantings. In a position like this the dwarf wrinkled varieties may be sown as well as the round sorts, but where the ground is cold and exposed it is better to wait until later, when the soil becomes drier and warmer.

Nott's Excelsior is, I think, the best of the extra early marrows. It is a great improvement on American Wonder, being a much heavier cropper and more robust than that variety. There are several other good kinds, such as Blue Beauty and Premium Gem, which may be planted in succession to the first named sort, if desired.

Plant in drills 18 inches to 2 feet apart. As a preventive against rot wrinkled peas at this time should get a very light covering of soil—an inch or two—just sufficient for germination. Later, when they are well over the ground, the soil can be drawn up to them.

Round peas, being the hardiest, are indispensable for early work. Among the several varieties I believe, from a general point of view, Eureka is the best for amateurs and private gardeners. It will give a larger crop and have a neater appearance if supported by brush or wire netting. Other suitable kinds are that good old variety Daniel O'Rourke and Alaska.

Set in drills 2 feet to 2½ feet apart. If a square in the garden is devoted to peas, commence in front with the earliest and dwarfest and, grading them to a finish in the back with the tallest midseason kinds, like Champion of England, the bed will have an effective appearance at certain times, says an American Gardening writer in concluding the advice here given about planting peas.

Growing Corn For Canneries.

Farmers usually complain that the price paid by canneries for green sweet corn is too low for profit. The American Cultivator's comment on this is that, even at the very low price which green corn often brings, the crop pays as well as do most that farmers grow, provided they take good care of the corn fodder and get the most they can from that. The stalks of sweet corn are, if well cured, sweeter and better feed than those from field corn. Yet how often the stalks are left to dry in the field while the later ears are ripening! They are often left uncut until frost cuts them. It is far better to cut early enough so that the last nibbings will be still green. Let them go in the fodder. They are worth more there than for anything else. In most cases some of the earliest of the sweet corn can be sold to private customers for prices above what the canneries can afford to pay. The business of fruit canning has to be run very closely to enable the canners to hold the world's markets, and the farmer should be willing to accept low prices as well as the manufacturer. Canned corn is always sold by the dozen ears or by weight of the ear in the husk. Most kinds of sweet corn bear two or more ears on a stalk if on good land. This tendency to extra productiveness makes the sweet corn crop pay better than expected by farmers who base their calculations on one ear to a stalk, which is a good average for most kinds of field corn. A corn canning factory is therefore a good thing for the farmers in any neighborhood. They should encourage rather than discourage it. The more widely diversified farming is made the greater the profits and the smaller the danger by reverses when any one crop proves a failure.

AN ASPARAGUS BED.

How to Make It—Early Spring the Best Time—Plants From Seed.

Early spring is the generally accepted and best time for setting out asparagus plants, though the planting can be postponed for several weeks, owing to the roots being very succulent, without the injury which would befall many other vegetables. But early planting is certainly to be recommended if the soil can be properly prepared. The crowns or tops of the plants should be set about three inches below the surface of the ground. This is the depth for average soils, though in light ones deeper plantings are often made.

Asparagus delights in deep, rich, preferably sandy, loam. Deep and thorough pulverization of the soil and incorporation into it of well decomposed horse manure—the more the better—are all important points in asparagus culture. If only a small bed for private use is contemplated, it would pay to double dig or trench the soil two feet or more, mixing some of the above manure with each layer of the soil as it is turned over. If, however, the planting is to be on a larger scale, deep plowing (manure being first evenly spread), followed by subsoiling, will suffice. A manure spreader will apply the manure in the best possible manner, as it thoroughly disintegrates it and disperses it evenly. Practical growers do not agree as to the age of plants for setting, whether they should be one or two years old; but, as the advocates of each seem to attain equally good results, there would not appear to be much choice.

In large plantations one year old roots are generally used as being less expensive, and if well grown are undoubtedly preferable to stunted two year old plants. For a kitchen garden the latter, since they give quicker returns, would be perhaps advisable. The feeling as to the pocketbook must determine the matter. In market gardens the rows usually stand four or five feet apart, with plants two or three feet in the rows. The greater the distance between the plants the larger and stronger will be the shoots and the longer will the bed produce profitably 20 years or more if well made in the first instance and afterward regularly manured. A plan often adopted in market gardens is to form beds five feet wide, setting three rows of plants in each, one in the middle and the other two 18 inches on either side of it, plants to be set a foot apart in the rows or wider if thought desirable. There should be paths two feet wide between the beds, so that all operations can be handily performed. In large beds it is well to run a weeder or light smoothing harrow over the surface a week or ten days after setting, which will destroy any germinating weeds, repeating at intervals until the plants begin to grow, when the cultivator should be used—carefully at first. In small beds a steel garden rake will answer the purpose until hoeing becomes necessary.

In addition to the foregoing The Country Gentleman tells how to raise plants and combat the asparagus beetle. The seed bed should be carefully prepared as advised above. The seed should be sown early in the spring in rows a foot apart with seed an inch apart in the rows. Perfect freedom from weeds is required, as the delicate young plants are easily smothered, and frequent hoeing is necessary to keep them growing and to form an earth mulch during the hot summer months.

The following spring the plants may be set in a permanent bed. By giving proper attention to them these self raised 1-year-old plants will be better and stronger than the average of 2-year-old plants usually procurable by purchase. A light cutting of shoots may be made the second year after setting and the year following, and thereafter a full one. The asparagus beetle, yearly increasing in numbers, must be watched for. If found to be present, especially in newly made beds, the plants must be dusted at intervals during the season with a mixture of paris green and plaster.

Creamery Buildings and Outfits.

Creamery buildings may be erected in which first class butter may be made for from $500 to $1,000 and equipped with machinery for handling 7,000 to 10,000 pounds of milk per day at a cost of not over $1,500, or an estimated total cost of $2,500 at the outside. In some places $2,000 will establish this plant. Outside of building, the two heaviest items of expense are for separator and engine and boiler. The very best separator may be bought for from $400 to $500, separating from 2,000 to 2,500 pounds of milk per hour. An engine and boiler costing new from $400 to $500 will be necessary. Milk vats holding 600 gallons of milk may be purchased for $50 or less, a cream vat holding 200 gallons for about $35, standard butter worker for $40, churn about $80, with many other items in the way of equipment, mostly in a small way.—Professor C. S. Plumb.

They Reach The Kidneys.

Mr. Conrad Beyer's opinion

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS.

No one can be healthy with the kidneys in a diseased or disordered state. The poisonous Uric Acid which it is their duty to filter out of the blood, is carried into the system and produces Rheumatism, Headaches, Backaches and hundreds of ills and ailments.

Any one who has the slightest suspicion that the kidneys are not acting right should take Doan's Kidney Pills. They are the most effective kidney remedy known. Mr. Conrad Beyer, at E. K. Snyder's Shoe Store, Berlin, Ont., bears this out when he says:

"Anyone suffering with kidney troubles cannot do better than take Doan's Kidney Pills, for they cured my wife who has been afflicted with pain in the back and other kidney troubles for a long time. They have helped a great many of my acquaintances in this town, and I must say they are the medicine that reach the kidneys with the best effects."
